The two most notable events of the day were the married women's race, which was won by Mrs. G. Brown and the relay race, in which Irene Hesketh played a winning solo. Milo Notes

The son of Mr. Greaves, a farmer residing 15 miles east of Milo, was the victim of a very painful accident last week. His horse bolted while he was plowing, throwing him on the floor. Three of his ribs were torn out and he was cut badly across the abdomen before he was rescued. He was rushed in a truck, which was standing near by, to Basano Hospital for treatment. The doctor reported that he has a fighting chance unless infection sets in.

Dr. Carson of Vulcan made a hurried trip to Milo on Tuesday to attend Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McLean, who had the misfortune to fall down the basement stairs and suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

Miss McConnell returned on Sunday from Watton Lake where she had been spending her vacation.

A farewell picnic was held on Sunday at the river, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. Cully and Miss Neithal. Twelve cars left town at 1:30 p.m. Immediately on arrival at the picnic grounds, preparation went forward to serve the hungry mob, with steaming hot beans, scalloped potatoes, fresh boiled ham, ice cream, angel food, etc. Two ball games were then participated in, with a little smear on the side. After this everybody was willing and ready to feed the inner man again. Mr. Beechman, on behalf of "the gang," presented Mr. and Mrs. Cully with a silver platter, "Tree and Well" pattern and Miss Neithal with a lovely white leather hand bag. Mr. Beechman also expressed in a short address the regret of the community in losing the valuable services of these two efficient teachers, but outside of school activities, Mr. Cully has always rendered cheerful service with lovely violin music. Both teachers will be missed greatly in all of our sports. A huge bon fire lit up the scene and the crowd indulged in community singing, which brought

Tractor Races to be Featured at Fairs Next Month

Visitors to the Western Fairs and Exhibitions next month will have the unique experience of seeing farm tractors streak across the race track at mile-a-minute speeds. One of these tractors—the famous Allis Chalmers No. 999, which holds the world's speed record for tractors, will be driven by Louis Meyer, famous racing driver, who will use the new low pressure Firestone Farm Tractor Tires. Meyer is the only man who has ever won three A.A.A. Championships and is one of the pair who have twice won the Indianapolis Speedway Race.

Since their introduction several years ago, pneumatic tires for tractors have met with great success. All equipment manufacturers have adopted them and tests show that tractors with these tires are able to do 27% more work with 24% savings in fuel while the tractor life is extended 33% and repairs reduced by 50%.

The district was visited by another gentle rain last Tuesday, when .42 in. of precipitation was registered by the Seale Grain Co. rain gauge. This makes a total rainfall of 4.23 inches for June.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla, Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the spoiled daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Hoyt in the story are Ayia Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter. Ayia, too, Werth's mother and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has fallen in love. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and have a sleep on the sand. When they awake in the early morning, they find Peter and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla urges Peter to accept the money for his earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. Camilla has gone from the studio. Ayia Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000. Peter finishes his exhibit and asks Ayia and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for the studio for quiet and a thing. Peter and Ayia follow later, and the lights are turned on, and the statue has been shattered to pieces. Ayia accuses Camilla of doing this and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, and hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

CHAPTER XLVII

Long silence, which, brief remarks, like those which fill her where death has passed, prolonged that seemingly endless night for Camilla and Peter. They were alone. They were little to be seen. Only their separate thoughts labored in a ceaseless turmoil and gained them nothing.

If it had been a problem to solve a difficult decision to be made, it would have been different. But a thousand sleepless nights and thoughts of their lifetime could not efface this tragic thing that had come between them.

Camilla's tired eyes watched the windows being transformed into squares of gray patches with the approach of dawn, and the familiar objects in the room were left in dark blot to definite shapes. The empty turn-stand mocked her deservingly and degraded her part. For contrast, the model group in the doorway stood out sharply and proudly against the background of daylight.

If something had to happen to Peters' work, why couldn't it have been that piece which had been broken? It would have grieved her to lose it, but not like this! Over and over, she had wondered how the thing could have happened. It did seem possible that it could have been an accident from some natural cause. No, it appeared to be a deliberate act. But who could have grieved her like that? It was almost funny that anyone could believe she had done it—at least of all Peter.

Not if he had flirted with a dozen girls and broken her heart, could she have done so terrible a thing for revenge. No, never. She loved Peter so much that she would do anything in the world for him. Then why should she be so vengeful? Just because she had hurt her with his very attentions to Ayia, to whom he felt obligated? No, never. It was probably exaggerated that duty in his own mind because he always was doing kind things for other people. Ayia had managed somehow to make him believe he owed her his gratitude.

Camilla had known all the time that Ayia stole pictures in taking that studio sculpture the hall had been to induce Peter in her favor. Why any woman should so exert herself to take another woman's husband, she didn't know. And wondered if, loving Peter as she did, he belonged to another, she would still make such an effort to win him. She did not know. She was fair enough to admit that one never knew what one would do in another's circumstances.

No use to analyze all that now. Peter's love was irrevocable. She was determined to comfort him as best she could, and to permit her, and help him to revive his hopes and dreams. She would gently lead him back to the beginning again, like those brave figures he had portrayed in the sculpture he had made for her. Gazing at Ayia, his beauty and significance struck her so forcibly that she set up quickly with a little gasp.

"Peter, whose eyes had been closed but still sleeping, looked at her quickly.

"Peter, I have an idea," she exclaimed, her face brightened rapidly.

"Well?" he prompted listlessly.

"You must enter your immigrant group show. Look at it. The dim light of the room and framed in the brighter background of light from the window, I just now realized how wonderful it really is."

"If it took the judges that long to discover how good it is, I might win a prize in another ten years," he murmured.

"But dear, even if you don't win, wouldn't it be better to enter something as good as that?"

"If I can't enter a piece that I believe has some chance at least, I'll stay at home," she said.

"But it would have a chance. I know it would. If for no other reason, just because it is so different from anything else. Won't you please try it?" she pleaded.

He moved his head to one side, negatively. "It's no use. Forget it. Perhaps next year."

"Peter, you have to do it," she insisted, gently. "You might even pretend you planned to use that one all the time and were only going the other, figure for sale."

"To protect you?" he mumbled.

"Then you would believe what I said!"

"It isn't what I think. It's what you believe. What you were here and what they will say."

"Oh, no, Peter. I am sorry for any of these things that I could be so sure of. What you think. It's awful. How can you?"

"I didn't say I did," he denied placidly. "You said it. I suggested would protect you against the rest might think. That would be the only reason I might enter the thing for a while."

He believed that she had done this cruel thing to him, and still wanted to protect her from the opinions of others. What condemnations men were to be sure. Well, if he wanted to be so noble, let him. She was positive before trying the group would be to his honor and credit.

Which was what he agreed to do. "You have to go to the office, he had promised to carve the words, "Land of Hope," on the plinth beneath the little group. It was the last of the National exhibit as if that had been his first intention.

Others might believe that, but not Ayia. When he explained his intention to her, he added casually, "As a matter of fact, I don't know which is better. It's up to you. It's all settled. Matter of elimination. I had an idea from the first that I might not use the nude."

"You never can make me believe that, Peter Anson, but it's terribly sporting of you to take the chance," she said to him with frank eyes and a smile. "Don't you think it will have a chance?"

"I doubt it. You had the right idea when you made the other of the exhibit. It was the usual kind of stuff."

"It might be the unusual thing that will attract attention, then," he tried to sound convincing, but did not believe what he said, himself. Of course he had other studies in the room. He had done during his school and at the museum, but nothing else.

A Marvel Of Architecture

Palace of Arts in Mexico City Cost Ten Million Dollars

Many people look upon Mexicans as a somewhat barbaric people. Like Soviet Russia it is a country of political disturbances, but, like the Russians, they are intensely devoted to art, music and the theatre, and in this there is a far higher level of culture than in almost any English-speaking community.

After 30 years, the Palace of Arts in Mexico City has just been completed. The building was begun in 1904 during the regime of Porfirio Diaz, and despite frequent political changes each succeeding government has continued the work. There was never any difference of opinion about that.

The Palace of Arts is a stupendous structure, housing art galleries, a national museum, a gigantic theatre which is a work of art in itself and the auditorium of which has the most wonderful lighting system ever conceived, an auditorium for concerts, rooms for exhibits, lectures and various other purposes. The building is a marvel of architecture, inside and out, covered with terra cotta blocks, and cost about $10,000,000.

Neither Great Britain, Canada nor the United States could or would duplicate such a monument to the arts.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Women Detectives Fail

To Be Disbanded In London After Six Month Trial

Women detectives are a failure. After a six months' trial in detective work, women members of the London police force have brought little beyond their inborn intuitive instinct to the fore.

According to the Police-magazine they have been found wanting in sunny other capabilities needed in this type of police work and are to be disbanded.

In an outspoken editorial on their failure the Review states: "Many women who wish to qualify as detectives are always quite certain of their personal capacity and are apt to overestimate the absolute necessity of training to do their instinct."

The average woman is by nature entirely opposed to detective work and we see in this choice a safeguard to herself and a guarantee that her contribution to police work must be along different lines to those of men.

"We can ourselves unable to consider the disbanded of the women detectives as disastrous."

Have Seadog For Pet

Boys In St. John, N.B., Planning To Teach Him Tricks

Two boys who caught a seadog on the Bay of Fundy shore at West St. John, New Brunswick, are wondering if they really wish to keep the young amphibian known as the seadog, which they found swimming in the neighbourhood of stargazing. Then the boys have to go fishing to satisfy their captives' appetites. They also feed him through a nipple on a baby's bottle.

After keeping the seadog in a sack for one day, the boys fed it to the water and watched it swim away. Early the next morning, however, it was waiting for them on the beach before their house and followed them home like an affectionate, although awkward dog. Sometimes it goes swimming following the family rowboat, but never deserts its new pals.

The friendly canine, which helps carrying the group would be to his honor and credit.

Which was what he agreed to do. "You have to go to the office, he had promised to carve the words, "Land of Hope," on the plinth beneath the little group. It was the last of the National exhibit as if that had been his first intention.

Baseball Notes

The local senior baseball team again brought credit to the Arrowwood district when they visited Champion Tuesday evening of last week. Our team lost by a score of 5-1, but the "blacks" seemed to favor the Champion nine and they came out victorious. The sporting correspondent for the Calgary Albertan states the game as being "snappy and one of the best played on the Champion diamond this season." We understand that Champion has one of the best teams in the Wheat Belt so it is indeed a credit to the Arrowwood boys to have such a compliment made by the Albertan. Spurline pitched for Arrowwood, and there was only one error made by his team-mates. The local boys seemed lost on the bases and more careful base-running would probably have meant a victory rather than a loss. Champion, however, played ball all the way, proving to their fans that they really have a ball team.

Champion—Bouyzen cf, Bastin lf, Kneaps 3b, Steves p, R. Latiff ss, Waits c, Fox 1b, A. Latiff 2b, Anderson rf.

Arrowwood—Hale lf, Sharpe cf, McCullough 2b, M. Bowman 1b, D. Bowman ss, Mason 3b, Dunika s.

Playing the feature game of the day, and with the most of the crowd pulling for Arrowwood, the local boys went down to defeat 11-3 at Carleton last Saturday, when Blackie proved themselves worthy winners of the tournament. Walker, pitching for Blackie, had a great day, striking out 13 and allowing but seven scattered hits. Three of these being made by Archambault, Arrowwood's left fielder, who seemed to find Walker's offerings with ease. Spurline pitched the full nine innings for Arrowwood and until the end of the game had several of the Blackie players bewildered with his slants. Getting all the breaks, and behind the stellar pitching of Walker, Blackie scored 5 runs in the fourth inning and coasted to an easy victory. Our locals were unable to score until the ninth inning when McCullough was safe on a bunt; Archambault singled to score 2 runs; D. Bowman was safe on Addams' error and scored on Mainland's error at third. Sharpe, and McCullough made spectacular catches of difficult fly balls.

Blackie—Murray, Malmberg, Evans, Woolridge, Walker, Addams, Dawson, Wellman, Mainland.

Arrowwood—Norton, Sharpe, McCullough, M. Bowman, Archambault, Mackie, D. Bowman, Spurline, Mason, Hales.

Whites Must Not Attend Indian Stampede on Sundays in Future

The stampede put on by the Indians on Sunday have drawn such a gallery of late that these affairs are getting out of control. As a result, the government officials must ask that no whites attend any future stampedes on the reserve, else they may be picked up by the police as trespassers on the reserve—Gleichen Call.

Milo Notes

to a close a very lovely and enjoyable day.

The Milo baseball and softball teams are right on the map this year. Vuleas, out of town team, played softball against Milo on Friday evening. Vuleas making 4 runs in the first inning. Milo made two home runs, one by Norman McLeod, the other by Leonard Northcott. The game grew very exciting, as Vuleas piled up 13 runs. In the 7th and 8th innings Milo made rapid strides, until a tie game was the result in the 9th inning. One extra inning was played, with no runs. By this time it was too dark to try to break the score. A return game will be staged sometime this coming week. Armada and Milo played baseball Saturday evening. Score, Armada 8 Milo 2.

The community was shocked to hear that Mr. Kingsmith, an old resident here, had passed away suddenly at his home, early Thursday morning.

Mrs. Sadie Douglas and her sister, Miss Tracy of Calgary, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Alston.

Milo Public and High Schools will hold picnic at the river, on Thursday afternoon of this week. A big time is anticipated.

United Church service every Sunday at 8.00 p.m. Sunday School 7.15.

Mr. H. R. White, who is at present breaking horses in the Milo district, has been very successful in convincing the horse lovers of Milo that he is an artist in his line. His method of handling horses, without a shade of cruelty, looks almost like magic, yet when he is through handling the horse the animal is completely submissive to his demands. Taking the most obstinate animal in hand for a period of two hours, he can perform with it as he pleases. Mr. C. E. Gay, who is Mr. White's manager, will vouch for any statement made here, or will answer any questions you may wish to ask regarding the work. Mr. White offers a complete course in the art of horse training. Those wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity of taking the course may see Mr. White at Mr. Gay's farm, eight miles south of Milo, between now and July 9th.

Brownie and Guide Notes

This week brings to a close the Brownie and Guide meetings for the year, to be again resumed in September. It has been a very busy and successful year. Uniforms and equipment had been purchased and progress made in Tenderfoot and Second Class by the Guides, while the Brownies completed their Second Class and were awarded their Badges and Service Stars.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Pardoe, Provincial Commissioner, paid the girls a visit and found the Guide Movement well established in Arrowwood. To honor Mrs. Pardoe, a very delightful luncheon was served by the Local Committee, at the home of Mrs. Clitzgard. The Local Committee, all Guides and Mrs. Violet House, of Gleichen, were present. Place cards, with the Guide Trefol painted on by Mary Danka, a new Ranger were placed by the Committee.

Last Sunday evening the Church of the Brethren kindly loaned their place of worship for the annual Guide's Own Service. The Arrowwood Guides were unusually honored to have a mother of one of the Guides, Mrs. J. Wiand, conduct their service. Mrs. Wiand's address on the Guide Promise and Guide Laws was well delivered in such clear, simple and sincere words that every girl present could not help but feel that she had received a real message on the high ideals of Guiding. A vocal solo, "My Task," by Mrs. Hollenberg, was enjoyed by all present. The Brownies and Guides each sang a hymn and all recited the Guide Prayer. Service was concluded by Benediction by Mrs. Wiand.

Our Streets

Some time ago, when our streets were being graded, there was a great deal of dissatisfaction expressed. Now since the rains and after being dragged, we believe Arrowwood has the best streets in its history and our village Dads are now entitled to some credit to make up for the censure they received.

The harvest season is rapidly approaching and the present prospects are that there is going to be something to harvest. How about doing a little thinking along the lines of repairing your binders before the rush starts and also help us to the maintain a repair service that you demand.

Possibly you are considering the purchase of a new binder. When buying that binder there are two main things to consider: one is the quality of the repair service, both of which can be had in the New John Deere Binder, with its new improvements, such as a heavier and bridge type constructed frame, heavier and better bearings, heavier gears and pinions, Alemite lubrication, and still the lightest running binder! Besides these improved features there are many others, which can be better seen on the binder itself. Come in and look one over.

Don't forget we can supply you with the most dependable and up-to-the-minute power units. A few minutes discussion on this subject will convince you of this fact.
